

July Reflection 2017

July has started off very busy. You may have noticed a few changes within our Kookaburra room. After many years we have replaced our outdated drapes with some lovely roller blinds. We have also had the flooring replaced with some nice fresh linoleum, giving the whole room a facelift. While this was going on the kookaburra children were relocated to the kinder room and what an adventure that was. Some children who attend 3-year-old kinder were familiar with this room but most of the children had never been in there.

The dentist and the piano were a huge interest, we could hear tunes being played for much of the day and the big teeth were bright and shiny after lots of teeth brushing. Outside the children had loads of fun climbing trees and building. Building has been a popular activity for some time now and using the big blocks outside has given the children space to create large structures without being impeded by walls and furniture. The children have been trying out their engineering and design skills whilst forming amazing structures both vertically and horizontally.

Links to the National Quality Standards: Quality Area 1, Educational Program and Practice and TRCC Philosophy

