

July 2017 Reflection

So, this month we had an Adventure out to the outside front entry. It all came about when one of the children found a broken toy and ask to put it in the bin. Antionette suggested that we put it in the skip and of course all the children wanted to come. With the children walking down the hall we could hear giggles and children talking very excitedly. Once Antionette had put it in the bin the children turned to our street library and we picked out a book so we could take it back to the room and read it.

We all so had the dream puppets come out to the centre to put on a show for the children about space. This was all done by one lady using puppets and lighting effects.

Both experiences are children gained a sense of belonging and connectedness to a community. Over time, with opportunity, and support the ways in which children connect and participate with others increase.

Participating in their communities strengthens children's sense of identity and wellbeing. Our indoor and outdoor play is quite popular with the children who love to explore all environments freely and can choose where they would like to play. This is giving the children opportunities to make decisions on their own.

Links to the National Quality Standards: Quality area 6 Collaborative partnerships with families and communities and TRCC Philosophy

