

July 2017 Reflection

This month we have modified our block corner to match our children's everchanging development and their interests. We have made a transportation corner where we have added a carpark, a big wooden bridge and extended on our train tracks, cars and trains. Through this the children become confident and involved learners as they experience challenges that allow them to use their imagination and curiosity to support their problem solving, experimenting and investigate. They can contribute to other's learning as well as learn themselves.

Through our consistent group time we have noticed the children's growing interest in the books. We have found the book corner to be popular lately and some of the children have asked for a story or offered a story time before bed which has made for an easy transition.

Most of our children has mastered some of our sign language and have even used them at home which we are so pleased to see and hear about. We are in the process of looking up some more signs that we could extend on with our children.

Links to the National Quality Standards: Quality area 1 Educational Program and Practice and TRCC Philosophy

